Continuation of 11. does NOT place the application in condition for allowance because: Applicant argues that the fig. 1h and 6b does not show how the individual stands within a selected peer group associated with the individual user. Applicant argues that the statement "typical retirees need 80% of their pre-retirement income" is a hypothetical number applied to everyone using the retirement planning system. Applicant also asserts that there is no showing in the Williams' patent of the individual user's standing in any group. As indicated before, William teaches that everyone with the same age, the same retirement income need to contribute the same amount to have the same outcome. William also shows the option to adjust the contribution to have different outcome. Whether the statement is hypothetical or not the graph shows the individual and his peers standing. Fig. 1h shows an individual with zero saving at the age of 41 saving the same amount have the same outcome and when the individual changes the age or the amount of saving, the outcome being different. The graph shows not just the outcome for the individual user but for anyone with the same age, saving etc., i.e., the individual user and others with the same characteristics will have the same result. Applicant also argues that Jones failed to receive data directly from the customers and Marsh failed to disclose the use of the survey information for generating decision rules that are used for generating the targeted marketing report. In response to applicant's arguments against the references individually, one cannot show nonobviousness by attacking references individually where the rejections are based on combinations of references. See In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981); In re Merck & Co., 800 F.2d 1091, 231 USPQ 375 (Fed. Cir. 1986).

Applicant requests that the Examiner cite documentation to support the taking of the official Notice. Examiner would like to point out that the Official Notice was taken during the first office action and applicant did not challenge the Examiner, as such it is considered admitted art. The Official Notice taken clearly state that it would have been obvious to ordinary skill in the art at the time of applicant's invention was made to include such feature. Applicant now has attempted to challenge the examiner's taking of Official Notice, however applicant has not provided adequate information or argument so that on its face it creates a reasonable doubt regarding the circumstances justifying the Official Notice. Therefore, the presentation of a reference to substantiate the Official Notice is not deemed necessary. The examiner's taking of Official Notice is maintained.

Regarding claim 23, the use of the new art (Marsh) was necessitated by the amendment. Applicant changed the claim, which now recites directly receiving the data from the consumer.
